Hide and Seek Garden

Hide and seek… Will Dad play? What about Mom? Run! Dad's already counting! Don't forget to ring the bell at home base.

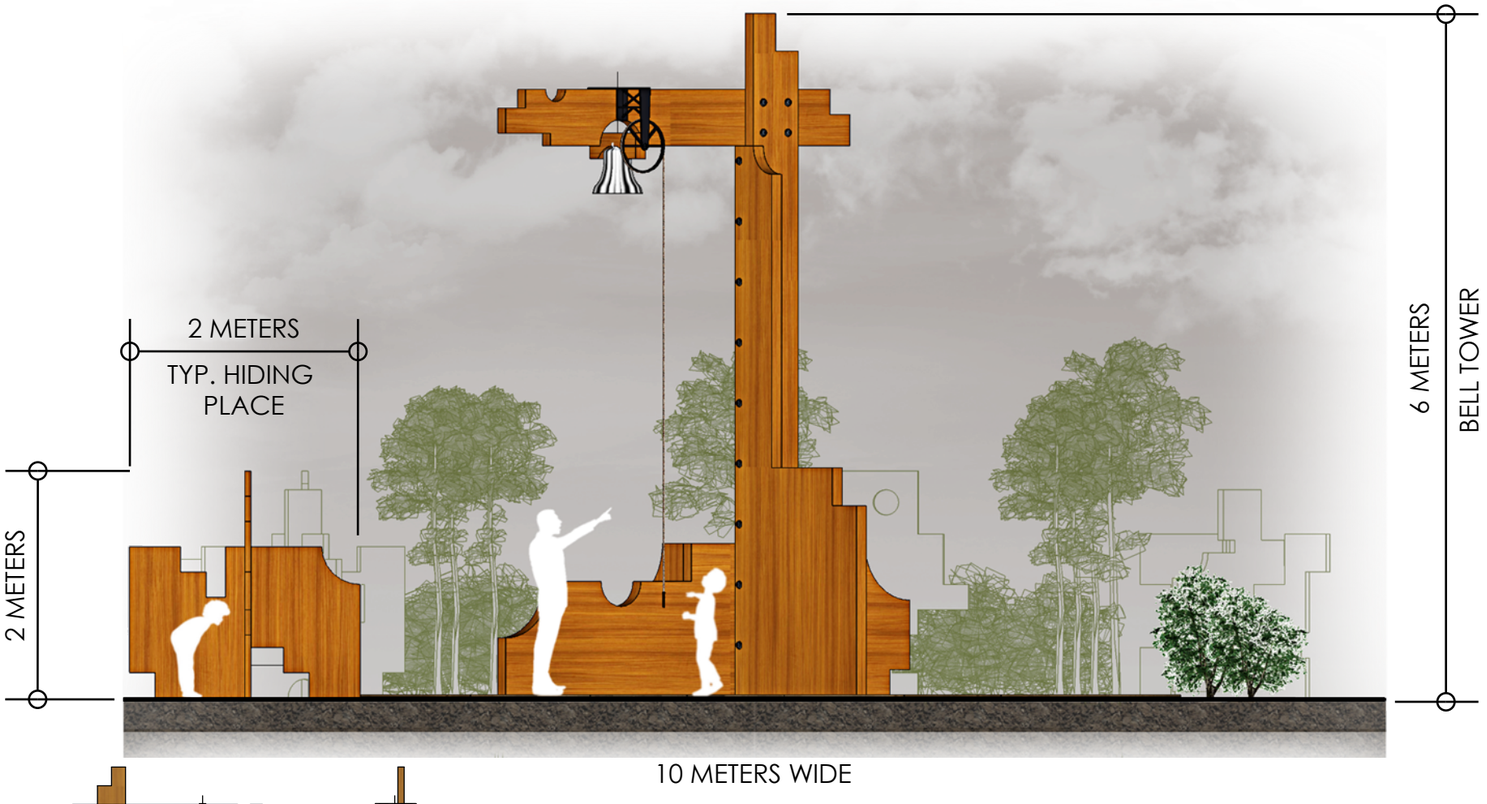
Randomly placed abstract forms set in the landscape create a sculpture garden meant for play. These hiding places, constructed of warm wood emerge from the earth in harmony with the land and trees.

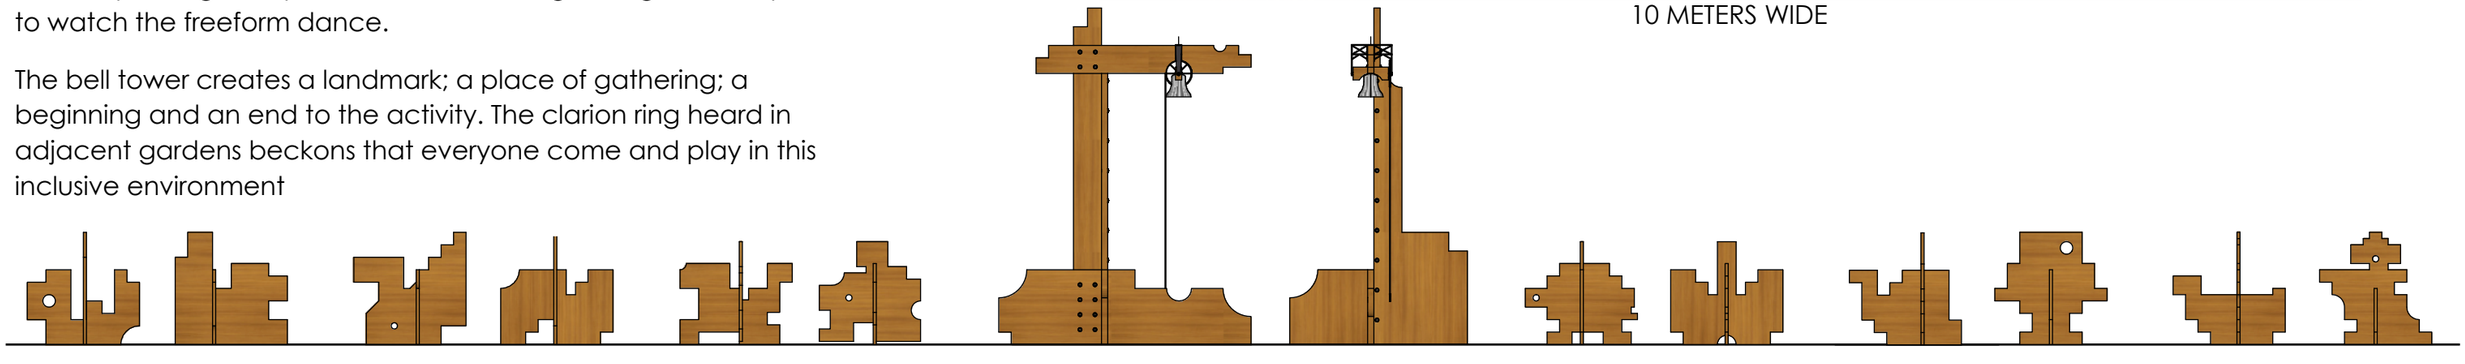
A simple grid of trees creates an atmosphere of calm. The breeze rustles through the leaves, the light is filtered and the ground is cooled.

Grass and shrubs a texture of life create obstacles to move around, jump over, and lie behind.

The participant's movement creates a constantly changing landscape. A gravel path meanders through the garden, a place to watch the freeform dance.

The bell tower creates a landmark; a place of gathering; a beginning and an end to the activity. The clarion ring heard in adjacent gardens beckons that everyone come and play in this inclusive environment





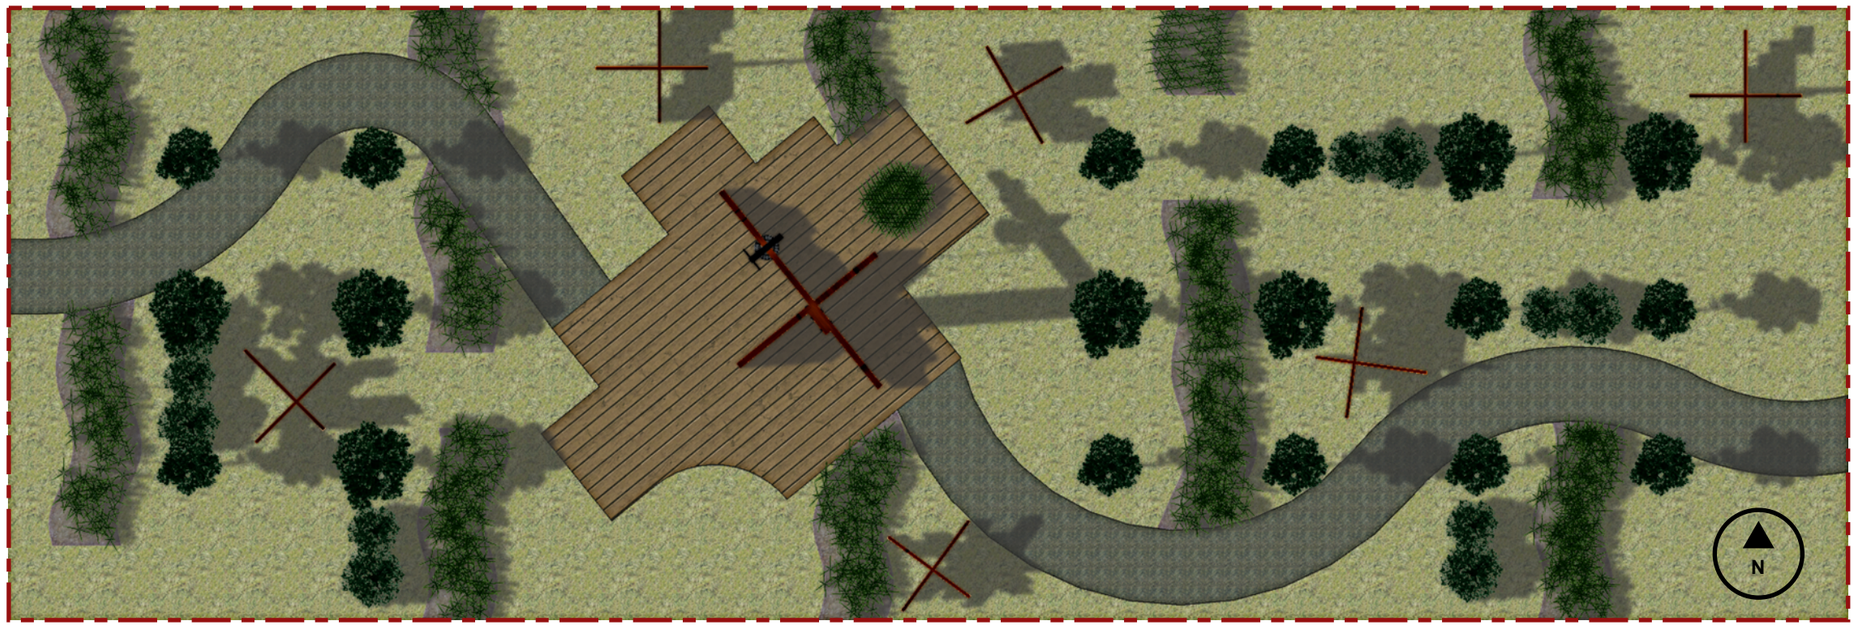
TREES:
HERITAGE RIVER BIRCH
(BETULA NIGRA)

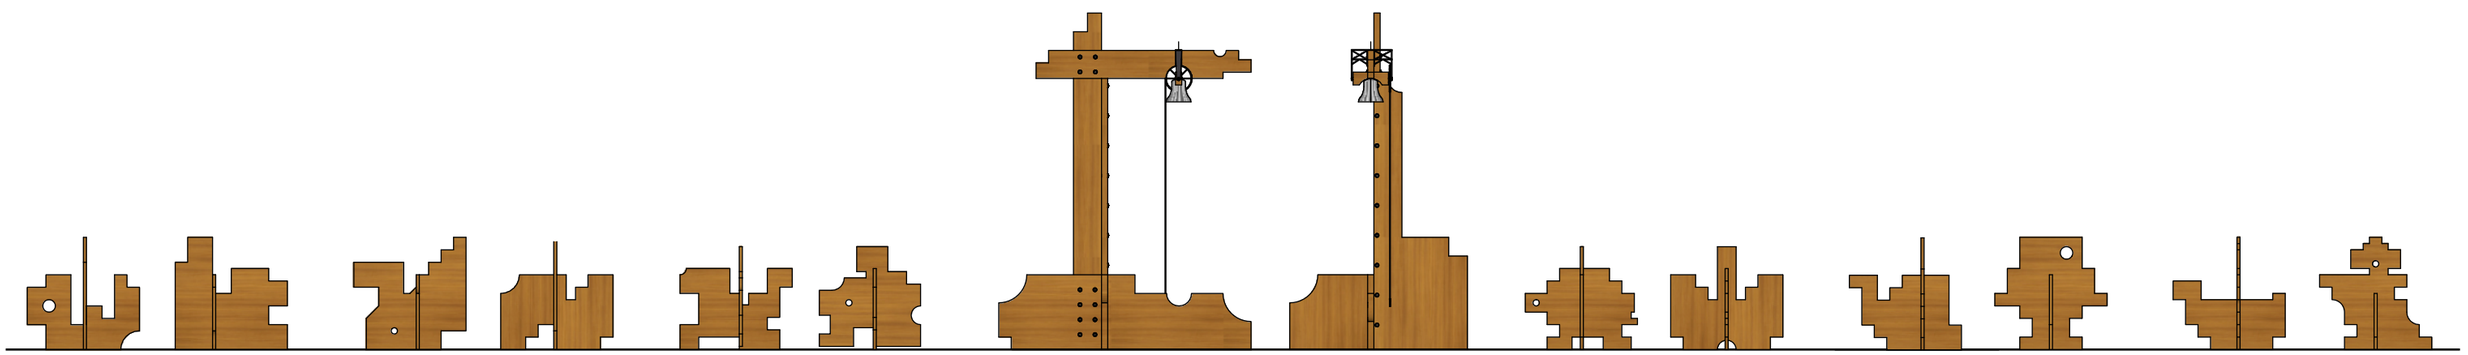
GRASS:
FEATHER REED GRASS
(CALAMAGROTIS
-ACUTIFLORA)

SHRUBS:
BOXWOOD WINTER GREEN
(BUXUS MICROPHYLLA)

30 METERS

10 METERS



SITE PLAN


SCALE: 1:100